

Web Interface Design - Sheet #2 – Lists and Hyperlinks

Scenario 1: Shep's Ice Cream Parlour (exercise derived and modified from Bojack text)

Shep's is famous for its ice cream confections. Shep, the owner, although innovative when it comes to ice cream flavours needs help with his web presence – he currently doesn't have one! He has provided you with the text he would like to see on the page. Your job is to produce the page as shown below. Note: Your page may not appear exactly as shown below due to different font and screen sizes.

Use ® for the registered trademark symbol.

IST is the abbreviation for "Incredibly Scrumptious Toppings".

Include the quote from James Dunn, the food critic from the Lancaster Gazette, as shown, using a superscripted number for the reference.

Make sure to follow HTML5 standards with respect to case and closings on tags. Don't forget to include comments at the top of the each page of code, and to use appropriate and descriptive filenames. Make sure that each page has a descriptive title bar notation.

Proofread your pages to make sure there are no typographical errors. Check that all pages appear as expected in the browser of your choice.

Shep's Old-Fashioned Ice Cream Parlour

What We Do

Shep's Ice Cream has been at the same site for more than one hundred years. Located in the small town of Hefferton, Vermont, people from all over New England come to Shep's Ice Cream Parlour. You must drop by and try our dream supreme ice cream.

You Haven't Tried These

Shep's Ice Cream is noted for making ice cream from very unusual flavors. Some of our new flavors include cheesecake, banana mint, and white chocolate brownie. Try all of our flavors with IST[®], our Incredibly Scrumptious Toppings.

Toppings Include

Shep's Ice Cream sundaes can be made to your specifications by topping them off with cherries, berries, shaved fudge, twice whipped cream, sprinkles or showers. Pick one topping or pick many. Make your sundae your own!

James Dunn¹ says: "This is certainly one of the finer Ice Cream Parlours in all of New England. I am always amazed at the freshness of the ingredients. Many people travel to Hefferton just to visit Shep's. It's definitely worth the trip."

Scenario 2: Champlain Coffee House (Continued from Sheet #1)

Change the text under the shop's name into hyperlinks that allow for the movement from page to page of your site. For this exercise, only the "Home" and "Menu" hyperlinks should take you to their respective pages. The "Music" page will be created later in the semester so for now use an empty reference for its hyperlink. Test the links to make sure they allow the user to go to and return from both the Home and Menu pages.

Make your email address at the bottom of the page a hyperlink that opens a new window ready for an email message. Consider this to as the contact information for these pages.

Change the information on each page from paragraph (or individual line) format to list format. Use bullets for the Home page and a description list for the Menu page (see sample visuals below).

Now that your updated pages are linked together, do the following:

- Validate your pages. Keep fixing and validating until there are no errors left.
- Display your pages in multiple browsers to assure that they are consistent.
- Find a partner and peer evaluate each other's pages using the provided check list.

Once the pages have been peer evaluated and updated (if necessary), place your files in a folder, zip it, and submit your work (by MIO) for evaluation. Hand in the completed checklist. Make sure both your names are on the checklist.
